A Lucky Find.

(Danville Messenger)

Mrs. W. D. Ferrell, who resides on the Rolling Fork, near Gravel Switch, and is the wife of W. D. Ferrell, who died several months ago, while examining some papers recently found a receipt for a premium paid on an insurance policy. She remembered that her husband had taken out a policy about ten or twelve years ago. She also remembered she had insisted that he allow the policy to lapse and use the money he was paying on same, while living, which he did. Continuing the examination she found the policy and was agreeably surprised to find it was one of those extension policies, on which four premiums had been paid and which kept the policy in force until 1915. Proof of Mr. Ferrell's death was sent the company, and last week Mrs. Ferrell received a check for over a thousand dollars. We often hear the expression when one secures money without effort, "it was like finding it." Surely that expression is applicable in this instance.

Forest Notes.

As many as 72 different kinds of wood are used in the manufacture of umbrellas, handles, canes and whips in this country.

Authentic records show that cinders, from a forest fire in the tree tops in northern Washington this fall, were carried a distance of twenty miles.

According to the latest available figures, Pennsylvania stands fifth in the production of wood pulp and is second to West Virginia in the amount of slabs and other sawmill waste used for pulp; Maine stands third.

The better wood engravings are made almost exclusively of boxwood, and the large blocks are made of small pieces glued together. The engraving is done across the end of the grain. Japanese wood prints, on the other hand, are made on length-wise sections of cherry wood parallel to the grain.

Throughout the national forests the rangers are posting the roads with permanent guide signs which tell distances and directions, especially at forks and cross-roads. The signs are usually put up in the winter when other work tends to be light. On some forests the rangers go on snowshoes, dragging loaded sleds and nail the signboards to the roadside trees.

The "Undressed" Kid.

Little girl, you look so small!
Don't you wear no clothes at all?
Don't you wear no shimmy skirt;
Don't you wear no petty shirt?
Just your corset and your hose—
Are these all your underclothes?
Little girl, when on the street,
You appear to be all feet.
With your dress so very tight,
Surely, you're an awful sight.
Nothing on to keep you warm;
Crazy just to show your form.

Little girl, you won't live long,
Just because you dress all wrong.
Can't you wear more underclothes
Than your corset and your hose?
After while I do believe
You will dress like Mother Eve.—
Exchange.

"Twilight Sleep" Babies.

Bearing "great news of good fortune" for women, Miss Margaret Tracy has returned to the United States and told how 8,000 babies had been born in Freiburg, Germany, without their mothers suffering the least pain. "This is news of the greatest importance to the race," said Miss Tracy, who has worked earnestly to have the twilight sleep method of birth adopted on this side, "for it means that women will cease to fear the pain of bearing children. There will be more children and the world will be better." Miss Tracy was enthusiastic concerning her investigations in the hospitals at Freiburg, where the twilight sleep was devised. With her in Europe was her sister, Mrs. Cecil Stewart, and the latter's baby, James, who was born eighteen months ago under the new method, and who was one of the first children to be so born in this country. Miss Tracy says that the 8,000 babies born in Freiburg are healthier, stronger and happier than any other 8,000 babies born by the old method.

Turkey Hen Adopts a Quail.

(Mt. Olivet Tribune-Democrat.)

A turkey hen at a farmhouse on Piqua pike has as one of her brood a young partridge. The partridge trudges along with the little turkeys, eats with them and at night goes up on the roost with them, invariably huddling under the protecting wing of the mother hen, which shows every kindly consideration to the new and singular addition to her interesting family. Where the partridge came from no one knows, but it is supposed to have been separated from a flock while quite young and coming in contact with the turkey hen and her brood allied itself with them for offensive and defensive purposes.

CHAMPIONSHIP DRAWS NEAR

One More Victory and High School Will Win The Honor.

The Orange and Black continued its winning streak on Monday by defeating the strong Princeton High School team 20-0. The Princeton team put up a fierce battle, but were unable to cope with the science of the Hopkinsville aggregation.

The game started with Princeton receiving. Hard line plunges and end runs put the ball well up the field, when H. H. S. held for downs. The ball saw-sawed back and forth for the remainder of the quarter with little advantage to either side.

In the second quarter, High recovered the ball, and worked well down the field. A forward pass from Lackey to Breathitt put the ball over, at a 25 yard run, Weak's interfering Breathitt kicked goal. H. H. S. 7, P. H. S. 0.

High School scored again in the next period, when Lackey plowed over for the second down. Breathitt again kicked the ball through the uprights for a 14-0 tally.

Higgins scored the third point when he plunged through the weakening Princeton line for a touchdown.

All the team played hard, consistent ball. The work of Dabney and Moss deserves especial mention for its defensive value. Breathitt and Weak's put up their usual steady game, while Lackey gained through the line with ease. The team maintained its reputation of not having its goal line crossed this year.

Owensboro is the next game, and upon it hinges the championship of Western Kentucky. By eliminating Princeton, who was able to hold down Paducah, High School places herself again in the limelight for this usual honor. By winning from Owensboro Saturday, the team will be on a par with other famous High School teams of 1907, 1909, 1911 and 1912.

The line up and score was as follows: Skerritt c., Dabney l.g., Lander l.t., Breathitt l.e., Weaver and Torian r.g., Moss r.t., Weak's r.e., F. & J. Higgins r.h., Moseley, Brown l.h. J. and P. Roberts q.b., Lackey f.b. Touchdowns—Breathitt, Higgins, Lackey. Goals—Breathitt 2 out of 3. Time of quarters 10 minutes. Referee—Hester.

Virginia Street Won.

The Virginia Street football team defeated the West Side eleven Tuesday afternoon, by the decisive score of 18-6. The game was held at Mercer's Park before the High School scrimmage and was hotly contested.

Not on the Menu.

Prospects of a good meal were not bright, but the fly-blown eating-house was the only thing of its kind in the neighborhood, so Johnson had no choice but to enter and try his luck. Entering the dingy dining room, he seated himself at a table covered by a stained cloth. A depressed waiter sauntered in eventually, and nearly fainted on beholding a customer. "Have you any cold pie?" queried Johnson. "Er-no, sir!" "Any chicken?" "Er-no, sir!" "Well, I suppose I can have some beef, can't I?" "Er-no, sir!" "What on earth have you got in the house, then?" "Er—the sheriff, sir!"

Profits in Ostriches.

Very large profits are being made from ostrich farming in South Africa. In the Oudtshoorn district many ostrich farmers have become extremely wealthy. One farmer in Cradock states that from two pairs of breeding birds he raised in three and a half years 240 birds, valued at £15 each. Another states that from one pair of good breeding birds his net profit for one year amounted to over £800.

Laughs at "Neurasthenia."

Each day sees some cherished illusion knocked on the head. Among the latest to be remorselessly brained by the rough hand of the scientific investigator is the notion that the country is healthier than the city. A modern, very modern, novelist represents a London physician as scoffing at what he termed the "neurasthenia joke."

MAN WAS ENJOYING HIMSELF

Chirpful Party at Chautauqua Entertainment Insisted on Having All the Amusement Possible.

The conversation at a social session in Washington the other night turned to the proficiency of some people in the matter of making sarcastic remarks when Congressman P. Padgett of Tennessee was reminded of an incident that recently happened at a Chautauqua entertainment.

In the audience was a man who insisted on talking aloud to the great annoyance of those about him. More than one scowling look was cast in his direction, and finally an esteemed citizen became indignantly eloquent.

"Look here, young man," he exclaimed, shaking a finger in the direction of the offender, "don't you know that you are annoying everybody in the house? Can't you stop talking and let us enjoy the lecture?"

"Oh, I don't know," was the cool response of the chirpful party. "I paid for my ticket and I don't know why I'm not entitled to all the privileges that go with it."

"Let him talk, mister," suddenly interposed a small boy. "He works in a deaf and dumb asylum, and this is his night off."

They Passed It, All Right.

Mrs. Peck—What were you doing on Main street this afternoon with that Miss Peachblow?

Henry Peck—Oh, I just met her and passed the time of day with her, that was all.

Mrs. Peck—That was all, was it? You paraded up and down the street with her for two hours! Is that what you call passing the time of day with her?

Henry Peck—Why, yes, dear. We went by a dozen street clocks, you know.—Springfield Union.

STUNG.

Swift—So you've just come from the seashore? Did you enjoy the breakers?

Smith—Not much; I've had sad experiences with those summer girls.

Just Like a Girl.

"Yes, we had a falling out."

"Really, Grace?"

"Yes, and I decided then and there to break the engagement."

"Gracious, dear!"

"I wrote him a letter—but I—I tore it up."

"My!"

"Then I wrote him another letter and tore that up too."

"Oh!"

"But the third letter I didn't tear up. Mustering all my courage and burying all pangs of regret, I took it to the mail box, and then—"

"Ah, and then? Tell me!"

"I didn't drop it in."—Pearson's Weekly.

A Comfortable Calling.

"So," said the visitor, "you intend to become a physician when you grow up?"

"Yes, sir," said the youth.

"And why have you decided upon the medical profession?"

"Well, a doctor seems to be the only man that keeps on getting paid whether his work is satisfactory or not."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Speaking of Matches.

Bacon—I see it stated that one fire in every ten in New York is caused by matches.

Egbert—And one marriage in about every ten there is unhappy.

"What's that got to do with it?"

"Why, both statements show that New Yorkers are careless with matches."

An Expression of Sympathy.

"Many a good actor, is overlooked because he does not get a proper opportunity," remarked the stage manager.

"Yes," replied the producer. "When you think of such men as Forrest and Booth it seems a shame that they couldn't have had a chance at the moving pictures."

Industrious Family.

"What do you raise here?" asked the horseback traveler of a boy who was playing on a little mountain farm in West Virginia.

"I raise corn an' pertaters," said the boy; "maw raises chickens and when paw comes back from ther still he raises Cain."—Baltimore Sun.

A Metropolitan Air.

First Passenger (looking out of car window)—Hello! Here we are in Chicago. I didn't suppose we'd got there yet.

Second Passenger—It does look like Chicago, but it can't be. Ah, I see! We are passing through a forest fire.—Puck.

CLEAN UP DAY AT CASKY

Last Friday was set apart by the trustees and teachers of the Casky school as a general clean up day. All the patrons in the district had been notified and asked to come and give one day's work to the school. The County Superintendent had also agreed to come and assist in the work. In spite of the unfavorable appearance of the weather the Superintendent, trustee, teachers, pupils and about thirty patrons came early in the morning and remained until late in the afternoon cleaning up and making such repairs as were needed around the school house. Superintendent, L. E. Foster, took charge of the painting while Dr. Sandbach directed most of his attention to the underpinning of the house, and the building of stalls for the patrons' horses. A large room about 20x33 was painted during the day, also a cloak room was painted and the blackboards were reslated. One carpenter put in the entire day repairing locks, desks and windows. A large number of ladies were present and they cleaned windows, painted (the walls), cleaned floors and at the noon hour spread for the entire crowd a bountiful dinner. The Principal, Mr. Lowe G. Johnson, had charge of the setting up of the new desks and repairing of old ones, while his assistant, Miss Hallie Clark, was busy directing the cleaning up inside and wielding the paint brush herself. Dr. Sandbach with his out-door crew underpinned the house with rough lumber, and aside from cleaning up of the grounds, built seven stalls to be used by the patrons. This matter of building stalls is quite a desirable feature in connection with the rural schools as it furnishes comfortable quarters for the horses during the day, consequently the pupils can come to school regardless of the weather. The paint that was used cost about $6.00 and one bale of shingles was used to repair the roof, thirty feet of chalk rail was put up and since the patrons furnished their own lumber for stalls and the underpinning the entire expense of the day was not more than $10.00 and it is a fair estimate to say that $100.00 worth of work was done during the day.

This merely goes to show what can be done in one day if all the patrons will co-operate, and at how little an expense the school house and grounds may be entirely renovated. Casky school is one of the very best in the county and they have two teachers, as above stated, who are energetic and who teach not merely for the salary they receive but for interest and the general welfare of the school and of the community. The trustee, Dr. Sandbach, is a live wire and he takes genuine pleasure in the matter of building up and establishing a great school at Casky. The patrons responded readily to the calls for help and the pupils manifested their willing dispositions to assist in any work they could do. In short, everybody connected with the Casky school has the proper spirit and with these forces combined we can only predict a great future for the Casky school. It is to be hoped that many of the other districts will see the work that has been done at Casky at this one clean-up day and that many, if not, all of the schools, will fall in line and revolutionize their school and school interest in the district.
